

THE GOLDEN RULE SCHOOL and its book of quotations

ORLEAN KOEHLE

The Golden Rule School is a character education program, adaptable to one classroom, to a group of classrooms, to a school, or to a home school.

The program centers around reflections on quotations of important people. It includes journal writing and class discussion of those quotations to stimulate thinking. It trains for good habits, independence, citizenship, leadership and character development.

The Golden Rule School's philosophy is based on mutual respect for all individuals. It encourages teachers and students to treat others as they would want to be treated, to think before they speak or act, and to express respect, kindness, and civility.

The teacher is being invited not to try yet another non-tested fad but to apply commonsense principles that have stood the test of time.

Too often expensive and time-consuming programs crowd out academic pursuits in schools and stir up controversy among parents. The Golden Rule School, on the other hand, is not only parent-teacher-pupil friendly, but also provides acquaintance with historical people, the events that helped make them famous, and their wise words of wisdom from which students and teachers can learn and benefit.

Simplicity is the key. Character building is the result.
